What is "CSA"?

CSA stands for Community Supported Agriculture. CSA is a way for the community to create a relationship with a farm and receive a weekly box of produce. It enables the community to make a long-term commitment to a farm. A typical CSA season runs from late spring through early fall. The number of CSAs in the US was at 50 in 1990 and has grown to over 2000.

How It Works

- CSA members pick up a box of healthy, organic produce each week.
- Each box is $25 and feeds 2-3 people.
- All produce is grown on-site at Crabtree Farms
- Crabtree Farms hand-picks the produce, then it is bagged and ready for you!
- We strive to offer a variety of delicious produce each week.

Pick Up

- Wednesdays, 12-6 at Crabtree Farms
- December 1st–December 22nd

Terms and Conditions

- Participants commit for 4 weeks from December 2 – December 23
- Since boxes are pre-paid, they can be collected together by neighbors/family.
- If your box is not picked up at the scheduled time, it will be donated. Late pick-ups are not available.
- All produce and co-op items are subject to availability and are not guaranteed
- Pre-payment can be made by check, cash or credit card. Note: Credit cards incur a 3% handling fee.
- Cost ~ $100 for 4 boxes, due with application. Payment is non-refundable.

CSA

ADOPT-A-BOX Program

Share the harvest with those who might not have access to fresh organic food. Many in the community go without proper nutrition. Through this program, produce will be donated weekly to partners in the community for direct food assistance. By donating funds to the Adopt-A-Box Program, you can be assured that 100% of your donation will provide food to local children and families. Any amount that you can donate will be greatly appreciated by someone in need.
